Announcement [Updated: January 11, 2022]

Dear colleagues and clients,

Following the recent events in Kazakhstan, the position has now stabilised, and things are slowly returning to normal. We are pleased to report that all our staff are well and none of the offices in Kazakhstan have been disrupted.

This means that the communications network, including the internet, is being restored and all our offices in Kazakhstan have full functionality apart from Almaty where for the time being on-line communications are not stable. We hope that this restriction will be lifted completely in the next few days. In the meantime, anyone who wishes to contact the Almaty office and is experiencing problems, we ask that they please get in touch with the office in Nur-sultan:
